ARTIST SPOTLIGHT

Debi Horton

Debi Horton is an Eastern Kentucky artist born and raised in Beattyville. For the last 30 years, she has called Morgan County home and has lived in Mize for the last 20 years with her soulmate, Mike Havens. They have three boys and five grandchildren, whom Debi refers to as her masterpieces. She and her husband enjoy playing bluegrass music together. Mike is a songwriter and guitarist while Debi plays fiddle.

Debi's creative spirit started early and she knew by the age of 8 that she wanted to be an artist. Her most treasured memories live in a little "holler" called Big Spurgeon in Lee County, where her free time was spent playing in the creek. She recently visited Big Spurgeon and realized that it was different than she had remembered. Everything had changed, and she felt it was her duty to capture the images of her childhood. As she painted, Debi realized that the quote she had heard many times, "The only thing consistent in life is change" was very true. When the pandemic hit in 2020, her world came to a halt, and there was nothing left to do but paint. So she painted, created, and painted some more. The resulting collection titled "Pandemic Paintings" is on display this month at the Mountain Arts Center.
